Tim:

Just a note to let you know how pleased I am with my new "toy". The Randall LeMay is all you said it would be, and the icing on the cake is/are your new sights.

The instructions you sent with the pistol were more than enough to begin with; however, only ten rounds had me shooting good. I began to chase a plastic jug at twenty-five feet, and ended up at over one hundred twenty-five feet, with no lack of hits. Probably a ninety-five percent hit rate, by count. I never thought I could do that again.

I alternated with my full house Springfield compact, and missed most of the longer shots due to the conventional sights. Needless to say, the Springfield is in transit to you to be re-sighted.

Thanks again.
